THE INSTITUTE.

Lawrence County Teachers Hold Successful Session.

DETAILED ACCOUNT OF THEIR DOINGS.

On Monday last the Lawrence County Teachers' Institute convened at the public school building, Supt. James Thompson presiding, with Prof. G. M. Blam instructor. As will be seen by the appended list the attendance was very large. Miss Della Holbrook was chosen Secretary, and the work of the session began.

This work was of the most practical character and as it continued five days, under the able direction of a veteran instructor, varied with pertinent and highly interesting excursions into the different realms and departments of pedagogy and the allied sciences this 1906 session of the Lawrence Institute must inevitably be of great benefit to the attentive member. If the NEWS were a daily paper it would afford as much pleasure to have given each day at least a synopsis of the institute's transactions. These are of much interest to the general public and of greater importance to the attendant teachers, to whom their daily record would be invaluable, but we must per force be content with this brief and somewhat imperfect notice.

The instruction given by the distinguished Conductor was, as we have said, of a most practical character, and from our point of view it seems that this is what is most needed. This is an intensely practical, utilitarian age. The business man who stops to speculate and theorize, and who gets on board an airship of dreams and soars aloft into the realms of fancy is apt to hit the earth with a sickening thud. So, the teacher who wastes his time—we say "wastes" advisedly—on psychology and concepts, and "if you sell a thing for five dollars which costs you nothing, what per cent do you make?" is apt to find himself left in the struggle for gain and distinction.

The teachers attending this institute were thoroughly imbued with the spirit of work and improvement. They are prompt in their attendance, keenly alive to all that is said and done in the various sessions, and most of necessity carry back to their schools much that will be of great good to them and to their charges. What vast responsibility rests upon these teachers! They are the real makers of our men and women. They are the true moulders of life and character. No feeling, thinking man or woman can doubt this. What, then, if this be true, should be the character of those to whom these great, vital responsibilities are intrusted?

The teachers of Lawrence county, as a body, meet, the NEWS is proud to say, the right requirements of the model instructor. They are men and women of high character, of lofty purpose and noble aim, and parents who place their children in their hands for instruction, mental and moral, do not make mistake.

We give the names of those attending the Institute, and for the very complete list we are greatly obliged to the Institute's efficient Secretary, Miss Della Holbrook:

A RIOTOUS EXCURSION

One Man killed and Several are Wounded at Ironton.

The steamer Panama has been in the cheap excursion business on the Ohio river nearly all summer, and has been, according to the newspapers, a hot bed of gambling, drunkenness and debauchery. Last Saturday night, loaded with about 700 passengers, she landed at Ironton to put off some men who had been noisy. One of the men, so it is said, threw a stone at the boat after he was put off, and immediately a volley of pistol shots was fired into a crowd of people who were standing on the street at the top of the grade. One young man who was standing by the side of his wife was instantly killed. His name was Carl Mayenschein. Two others, William Ince and Albert Slaughter, were seriously wounded.

The greatest excitement followed. The boat came to Catlettsburg, and then went to Cincinnati. Telegrams were sent to that city, and all the officers of the Panama were arrested and taken to Ironton and jailed, awaiting examination.

The Federal authorities will be asked to lend their aid in the arrest and punishment of those responsible for the murder.

Hickory for Handle Factory.

Mr. J. K. Whitten informs us that his company has decided to buy hickory timber at Louisa for a month, and if the quantity received will justify placing a mill here it will be done immediately thereafter. Therefore, it will be advisable for all those having hickory timber within hauling distance of Louisa to report here within that time as to how much they can furnish. Timber from five inches up is used. The mill will work it up into proper size for handles, and if the supply is large the company will probably add two lathes.

FATAL ACCIDENT.

Frank Black Instantly Killed at Levisa Lock, No. 1.

STRUCK BY A STONE FROM QUARRY BLAST.

About 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, a most distressing accident occurred at Chapman, a station on the C. & O. about 7 miles above Louisa, whereby Frank Black, 38, postoffice Buchanan, this county, was instantly killed. He was employed by the Baker Contract Company, contractors for the building of Lock No. 1, Levisa Fork, and was the valued foreman of the work.

For some time the Company had been quarrying stone not far from the lock, and Black had charge of the blasting. The explosive used was dynamite, and the discharge was made by a battery connected with the dynamite by a battery wire at least 400 feet long. A great many blasts had been made without the slightest accident, and it was thought that the one which was fraught with such sad disaster would be sufficient.

Being to the peculiar formation of the rock strata where the blasting was done all the shattered stone was hurled into the river, away from the men engaged in the work. But it seems that the inclination of the stratum where this fatal charge was laid was the other way, and when the blast was made the great shower of fragments was thrown in exactly the opposite direction, and one big piece of stone struck Foreman Black, carrying away the entire upper half of his head, causing instant death.

The body was cared for as thoroughly as possible and immediately brought to Louisa in a skiff, accompanied by several of the lock employees, some of whom were neighbors of the unfortunate man. John M. Rice, the Company's business man, and Mrs. Rice also came down in another boat.

Mr. Black's body was taken to Snyder's undertaking establishment and was there prepared for burial and placed in a casket. From there it was taken to the depot and placed on No. 37 and carried to Buchanan for interment.

Mr. Black was married and leaves a widow and six children. His wife was a daughter of Mr. Burris, a former well known teacher in this county. The Black home is on Rush creek, and is the house closest in this county to the Boyd county line. Mr. Black was one of the most valued of the Contract Company's employees, and had the reputation of being a most excellent man. His untimely death is deeply regretted by all who knew him.

Sudden Death.

Death came very suddenly to Green Moore, this county, Wednesday. He had gone to the house of his nephew, James Moore, to assist in digging a well. When the well was fifteen or sixteen feet deep Mr. Moore, who was at the bottom helping in the work, cried out that he was sick and asked to be hauled out. This was done as speedily as possible. When he got to the top he said he felt very sick, and before aid could be summoned he died.

Mr. Moore was about 35 or 60 years of age and leaves a widow and one grown son. For some time he had been living on Rich Creek, at or near the Isaac Henry place.

First Shipment of Coal.

The Muddy Branch Coal Company made its first shipment of coal Wednesday. This company will operate on a big scale and give employment to quite a number of miners and laborers. The manager, C. M. Keyser, is a practical coal operator while his assistant, the genial "Doc" Oldham, is equally as well versed in the business. The company is mining a very fine grade of bituminous coal and will have no trouble obtaining orders. The mines will be beneficial to Paintsville, and will have much to do in increasing its volume of business.—Paintsville Herald.

Don't Spit on the Sidewalk

It is an offense, punishable by fine and imprisonment, to spit on the floor of a railway coach or a passenger depot. Why not extend the provisions of this law to the sidewalks and all public places? The custom of spitting is useless, disgusting and highly unsanitary, spreading disease as surely as any other habit does. Ladies who have soiled nice dresses on account of the nasty habit will rejoice when it is suppressed.

O John! John!

J. P. Gartin, the popular piano dealer, left for his home at Louisa yesterday. The children, as well as the older ones, are always delighted by Mr. Gartin's visits, as he is a favorite with them, and it is common to see him going about with a half dozen girls running after him.—Pikeville Item.

A well-known watermelon grower said today that the crop would be exceedingly short this season on account of the bad weather that has prevailed for the past two months. The cool nights and wet days are death to growing vines, and he said he had not seen a patch in this section that would make any

Feud in Knott County.

On the head of Heaven in Knott county there is said to exist an alarming state of affairs. The Martins and Halls, well-to-do people, are reported to be in arms against each other, and a battle is imminent at any time. Twenty-eight men are heavily armed. Two have been shot, but neither has died. The Circuit Judge has ordered the Sheriff to summon enough men to arrest and take to Hindman all the persons engaged.

The trouble started about as follows: One of the Halls held a mortgage for $6000 on a valuable farm belonging to one of the Martins. Hall learned that he could get $20,000 for the farm from a mineral company, and on the day the debt was due he foreclosed the mortgage. That evening or the next morning Martin offered to pay the debt. Hall refused and made the sale to the mineral company. This brought about trouble. Martin asked for $5,000 of the profit. Hall offered $3500. Neither will move from these figures and the feeling has grown so bitter that the families are arrayed against each other in the terrible manner related above.

The Sheriff Gave Bond.

At a special term of the Lawrence County Court last Saturday, before T. S. Thompson presiding, Sheriff Harvey Sellers gave bond for the collection of the County revenue.

The following persons signed the bond: N. T. Rogers, O. S. Young, J. P. Williams, H. C. Osborne, Felix Adams, James Sump, J. J. Gambill, Jr., Tom Jeff Chapman, N. A. Borders, John Henry Sturgill.

Arrested for Murder.

A report received here this morning says that John Tipton and Red Hallett, two Catlettsburg policemen, have been arrested and placed in jail upon the charge of killing James Gray and shooting Win. Pratt on the night of July 4th. For some time it was not known who did the shooting, but it is now said there were four or five eye witnesses.

Andrew Eaves Dead.

A. J. Eaves, formerly a well known citizen of Louisa, died suddenly at his home in Ashland last Tuesday. The Ashland Independent speaks of the death as follows:

The friends of Andrew J. Eaves were shocked this morning to hear that he had dropped dead at his home on Lexington avenue. Mr. Eaves arose about 6 o'clock, complained of a difficulty of breathing, but dressed and walked as far as the kitchen, where he staggered and fell, life being extinct when members of his family reached him.

Mr. Eaves had been a resident of Ashland for about ten years, coming here from Louisa. He was a native of Virginia, having been born near Lexington in 1831. He had been an invalid for a number of years, but no one dreamed that death was so near, and the members of his family are prostrated by the shock.

Mr. Eaves was a member of the M. E. Church, and was a man of sterling Christian character, who was held in the highest esteem by all. He is survived by his wife and five children—Mrs. Will Hatchison, Mrs. J. T. Hackworth and Mrs. Grace Rice, of this city, Mrs. Will Ferguson, of Catlettsburg, and E. K. Eaves, of Indian Territory. Definite arrangements for the funeral are not made, but it will probably be held tomorrow afternoon from the house.

The Caldwell Case.

The case of the Commonwealth against William Caldwell, charged with shooting Tucker Vanhorn, was called by Judge Thompson last Friday. Because of the absence of Vanhorn the examination was again continued, this time until August 17. It is thought that by that time Vanhorn, who is slowly improving, will be able to be present as a witness. A large number of witnesses from Bear Creek was present.

Business Men's Club.

The first steps toward the organization of a Business Men's Club have been taken. R. L. Vison has been elected President, W. D. Pierce Vice President and Cullie Bromley Secretary. The object is to promote the interests of Louisa.

The park question was discussed at the meeting and laid aside for the present, the members deciding that the Kentucky Normal College needs the concentrated efforts of the citizens of Louisa.

The Lawrence County Fair also received consideration and it was decided to put certain plans into execution that will result in securing a much better list of premiums than has heretofore been offered.

The Business Men's Club promises to be of valuable service to Louisa and vicinity.

KILLED IN MINES.

David Spence Loses His Life at Peach Orchard.

David Spence, age 35, was killed in the coal mines at Peach Orchard Wednesday morning, presumably by a fall of slate. A telegram was received here telling of the sad accident, but no particulars were given.

Mr. Spence married a sister of Mr. P. H. Vaughan, of Louisa. Mrs. Jas. Hatcher, a niece of the deceased, went to Peach Orchard yesterday to attend the funeral.

Mr. Spence was a good citizen, and a member of the Odd Fellows Order. He had been employed at Peach Orchard for fifteen years or more, and was a trusted employee. He leaves a wife and two sons, ages 8 and 11.

This is the first fatal accident that has occurred at Peach Orchard mines for several years.

Board of Officers.

Lieut. P. S. Bond, U. S. A., Engineer in charge of Improvement of the Big Sandy, has been appointed member of the Board of Officers of the Corps of Engineers to consider the plans for Lock No. 1, Mississippi river, between St. Paul and Minneapolis, Minn. This Board will meet in Minneapolis August 1, and Lieut. Bond left yesterday morning for the scene of duty. He will be gone possibly ten days.

This Board is a very important body, having some very high and responsible duties to perform, and the selection of Lieut. Bond as a member is a decided compliment to so young an officer.

C. & O. Sunday Outings.

C. & O. Railway, Sunday Outings, July 1 to Sept. 30, 1906. Half fare, minimum 25 cents; between Big Sandy District stations for morning train No. 37, good to return on evening train No. 38.

OUR COLLEGE.

Fine Dormitory to be Built at Louisa This Fall.

DECISION REACHED—PLANS UNDER WAY.

President W. M. Byington, of the Kentucky Normal College, which will open in Louisa Sept. 4th, met a number of business men Wednesday evening and fully discussed the matter of buildings for the college. It was decided that the first building needed would be a dormitory, and that it should be built at the earliest possible date. A committee was appointed to act with Mr. Byington and they began work Thursday morning. The first thing to do is to procure a site, and prices are being secured on all available property. The best proposition offered will be accepted at once. It is the intention to begin work on the building at the very earliest moment. The structure will be about 62 feet on front and have an ell 32 feet long. Concrete blocks will probably be used, making a substantial and handsome building, fireproof and everlasting.

This will settle the question of cheap board, $2.00 per week will be the rate for room and board, and about $1.50 for meals only.

It is therefore the most important step that can be taken toward the success and permanency of the school. It settles more questions than one. The public school building and the Masonic building will answer nicely for school purposes for the present, and the dormitory removes all doubt of being able to take care of pupils at low rates.

A strong effort will be made to complete the building by November.

PERT PARAGRAPHS

Picked Up At Pike, Paint and Prestonsburg.

Born, July 19th to Rev. W. F. Tyree and wife, of Pikeville, a fine girl.

Sue, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Flanery, of Pikeville, died Sunday evening, after a long illness.

News comes from the Beaver feud in Knott county, which recently came up in the Hall family, that only three men had been shot. So far, none killed.

The large barn of Hon. A. W. Campbell, of Phelps, Pike county, burned on Tuesday of last week and with it, a valuable mule, 300 bales of old hay and fifteen acres of new hay. Mr. Campbell thinks the cause of the fire was spontaneous combustion. His loss is between $1,500 and $2,000.

U. S. Marshal J. M. Robinson, of Pikeville, destroyed two moonshine stills—one in Floyd and one in Knott—the past week. He also arrested Elkhna Owsley, of Floyd county, and brought him before Dr. Gray, charged with stilling in violation of law, and he was held for trial at the next term of the U. S. Court at Catlettsburg. Mr. Robinson is considered one of the best men in the Revenue Service.—Pinedealer.

A railroad survey is being made up Beaver creek, Floyd county, a distance of thirty-six miles. The survey begins at the C. & O. railroad at the mouth of Beaver and extends to the heart of the fine coal fields of that creek. J. F. Prindle, of this city, is in charge of the work. The survey is being made for John C. Mayo and associates. There is a strong probability the road will be built. It will open up one of the finest sections in the Big Sandy Valley.—Paintsville Herald.

A pretty wedding occurred in Paintsville on last Wednesday night when Miss Flossie Spradlin, of that place, and Everett Price, of Denver, were united in marriage. The bride is the only daughter of Leonard Spradlin, and the groom a son of the late Jim Price. We wish them a long a happy life. Quite a large crowd was in attendance and enjoyed the occasion until a late hour.

Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Burns and daughter attended the races in Catlettsburg yesterday.

ITEMS OF INTEREST FROM MANY STATES

Important News Gathered from Abroad for the Benefit of Our Readers.

Considerable property damage was caused by earthquake shocks in Sorro, San Marcial, and other towns in New Mexico. A distinct shock was felt at El Paso, Tex., but no damage was done.

Hon. S. W. Hager, Auditor of the State, delivered an address opening his campaign for Governor in Mt. Sterling before a good crowd.

Some enterprising Southerner recently sent to the President at Oyster Bay a weird paragraph from a New York daily paper, which told how a Richmond, Va., man had found a Chicago dog license tag in a can of Wiener-wursts. The President carefully pasted the clipping on a large sheet of paper and forwarded it with the letter to Commissioner Neill, who is largely responsible for the present agitation over meat products. Undoubtedly the slip the President had written in bold letters:

"Respectfully and prayerfully referred. T. Roosevelt."

London, Ky., July 20.—At Humphrey, in Casey county, at the conclusion of John D. White's speech, Mr. White was called upon to admit or deny certain statements in the deposition of W. S. Taylor in the congressional contest case of White against Boreling. Mr. White lost his temper and in an infuriated denunciation of W. S. Taylor said that he (Taylor) had conspired assassination, and was "worthy of a front seat in hell." Mr. White wants to represent the Republicans of the Eleventh district in the next Congress.

Campton, Ky., July 20.—News was received here this morning that F. A. Hopkins, of Floyd county, had entered the race to succeed himself as a member of Congress from this (the Tenth congressional) district.

Sergeant, Ky., July 19.—The details received here from Beaver Creek, fifteen miles north, concerning the assassination of Dick Hall and a man named Thornberry, Tuesday evening, are meager. However, the most authentic reports show that Hall and Thornberry were assassinated as they were riding along Beaver creek. Hall was killed on the spot, and reports indicate, while Thornberry was desperately wounded and may die. It is known that a feud had been growing between members of the Hall and Thornberry families, and a clash was hourly expected. When John Thornberry, one of the men assassinated, joined the Hall forces, two weeks ago, it gave new life to the factions. Now there is much excitement, and those in close touch with both factions declare that more bloodshed is imminent. A special messenger was sent to the scene. Excitement is high.

Chicago, July 19.—The Daily Trade Bulletin today issued its annual estimate of the wheat crop. The crop of winter wheat is placed at 435,000,000 bushels and that of spring wheat at 285,000,000 bushels, making a total yield of 720,000,000 bushels. Supplies carried over in second hands are estimated at 85,000,000 bushels, and it is figured that 46,000,000 bushels are still in the hands of farmers, making a total supply for the year of 821,000,000 bushels. The estimated export during the year, and supplies on hand July 1, 1907, 296,000,000 bushels. The aggregate world's crop is placed at eighty million bushels less than last year.

Richmond, Ky., July 21.—Replying to a letter addressed to him by Gov. Beckham, Senator James B. McCreary today addressed a letter to the Governor, in which he agrees to one of the propositions made by the Governor, but declines to agree with him on the other. Senator McCreary agrees with Gov. Beckham that all the candidates shall be present when the State Committee arranges the order in which the names of candidates to be voted for at the coming State primary are to appear on the ballot.

As to the selection of election officers and the proposition made by Gov. Beckham, that he and Senator McCreary divide them equally, Senator McCreary asks the Governor if he thinks this would be fair to the candidates for the other offices. He suggests to the Governor that each of the candidates for any office, from the lowest to the highest, has the same and equal right to participate in the selection of the election officers, and declines to agree with the Governor that the minor candidates be ignored.

Senator McCreary says he is willing at any time that may be convenient to them both to go before the State Executive Committee with Gov. Beckham and confer with that committee regarding the plans for the primary, accepting an invitation given by Gov. Beckham.

The Hon. William Jennings Bryan, candidate for Congress in the Eighth Kentucky district, while speaking at Lawrenceburg, was overcome by the heat, and fell into the arms of his opponent, Judge John W. Hughes. He has withdrawn from the race.

The thirty-seventh annual meeting of the Kentucky Press Association began at 11 o'clock Monday with a luncheon at the Old Inn, given by the Courier-Journal and the Louisville Times. The editors left at 12:01 for Grayson Springs, where a reception was held.

Lexington, Ky., July 22.—A sale of 20,000 acres of land in Eastern Kentucky, to a New York syndicate, was practically concluded in this city last night. Charles E. Smith, a real estate broker of Winchester, representing the owners of the land. Mr. Smith stated that the deal represented a purchase price of $200,000, which would be paid within ten days, and the buyers given a deed to the property. The land comprises 20,000 acres in Perry county. There is much valuable timber on the tract, and a number of fine coal veins. The property is not touched by a railroad now, but Mr. Smith believes that section will soon be penetrated by a railroad.

A party of revenue officers from the Seventh and Eighth districts made a raid early Saturday morning upon a moonshine still near Gombard, Powell county, capturing C. T. Gilbert, W. L. Clifton and James Martin, and destroying an eighty-five gallon distillery, and about four hundred gallons of beer. The prisoners were taken to Beattyville, and gave bond to appear before the United States Court at Frankfort, in September. The Deputy Collectors composing the raiding party were: W. M. Husko, G. W. Castle and H. C. Herndon, of the Seventh district, and J. T. McCoy, of the Eighth, assisted by Deputy Marshal William Mays and S. S. Bailey, of Beattyville, and Lewis White and George Tabor, of Olive Hill.

It is claimed that the miners who constitute a majority of the Republicans in Speaker Cannon's district will vote against him. They claim that they have no doubt of his defeat at the next election.

Russell Sage, the veteran financier, died suddenly of heart disease at his country home "Cedarcroft," at Lawrence, L. I. He had intended to observe his ninetieth birthday on August 4. Mr. Sage had been in exceptionally good health since his arrival at his summer home about six months ago. He was one of the wealthiest men in this country and controlled and loaned more money than any man or corporation.

The dissolution of Parliament by the Czar is considered as the beginning of the last act of the great drama of Russian Revolution. The people and the Government are in direct opposition, and upon the army depends the immediate issue. The Government is preparing for battle, and no stone is being left unturned to safeguard its interests. St. Petersburg and other cities are crowded with soldiers, resembling an armed camp. The opposition in the former Parliament will not attempt to meet in St. Petersburg, but several of the members have gone to Finland, where it is said, meetings will be held. The Government is making searches without process of law, and public and private meetings are forbidden. The Czar has announced that his actions does not mean an annulment of the principle of popular representation.

COAL LANDS

In Eastern Kentucky and Their Development.

(Manufacturers' Record.)

Cincinnati, Ohio, July 16.

The story of the Big Sandy Coal Co., reading like a romance and illustrating the marvelous money-making possibilities which attend the development of the coal resources of the Appalachian range, was brought to mind by a discussion I heard recently regarding the volume of investments now being made in Southern properties, and the favor in which such properties have come to be regarded, even by the most conservative capitalists in the centers of the East. The discussion ended in a general agreement that the people of the North are going to have at least an equal share with Southerners of the great profits which are being made in the development of Southern properties, and a declaration was made by those present that in the matter of coal properties alone there were likely to be as many great fortunes created for people of New England itself as had been made out of the industrial development of the New England States, enormous as that development has been.

It occurs to me that no more striking demonstration of the truth of this statement could be furnished than is contained in the history of the Big Sandy Coal Co.'s operations and its condition and promises today. As in the case of every other great enterprise, there have been long years of weary work and waiting while the rebuilding of the enterprise was in progress. There have been discommodities and hardships, failures at times, and even pathetic deaths of some of those who have toiled longest and hardest. Only in the recent past has the property been put in producing shape and the fruit of years of endeavor come to hand. But now there is revealed to all the foundation for the hope that inspired the men behind the enterprise, and what they have seen from the beginning is today apparent to all the world. Within the year railroads have penetrated the property of the Big Sandy Company, mining operations for the first time have been started up, the superior steam, gas and coking coal of the company have been put on the market, and present capacity of operations will show a production of about 1,300,000 tons a year.

Altogether the Big Sandy Company owns 120,000 acres of the finest coal lands of Southeastern Kentucky, situated in Pike county, and carrying in the best-developed form all the seams of the phenomenally excellent Elk-horn coals. Throughout the tract there are six seams of coal, workable over large areas and running from four to eight feet in thickness, while in one area of about 4000 acres there occurs what is called the Pinewood seam, which at some of the openings shows the extraordinary thickness of 17 feet. The two principal seams, with respect both to quality of coal and persistency, are the Upper and Lower Elkhorn, which are found practically throughout the entire property, separated from 150 to 200 feet in column and showing five, six, seven, and up to eleven feet of thickness.

There are the coking coals, surpassing in quality even the best coke of the Connellsville district of Pennsylvania. Whereas Connellsville coke boasts of 90 per cent. of fixed carbon and something less than eight-tenths of 1 per cent. of sulphur, the Elkhorn coke has shown as much as 96 per cent. of fixed carbon and less than five-eighths of 1 per cent. of sulphur. Of the same geological horizon as the Connellsville coal, and presenting the same appearance in the mine and after being coked, there is no intelligent doubt that the grade is practically the same. That the area in Kentucky is greater than that of Pennsylvania, and is just beginning to be developed, while the end of the Connellsville district is in sight, is the feature of vast moment to the accurate computation of the present and prospective value of the Big Sandy Company's holdings.

The Big Sandy Company is capitalized at $5,000,000, which represents a valuation of less than $38.50 an acre. The Connellsville coking coal lands of Fayette county, Pennsylvania, cannot be bought for less than $1200 per acre, and in some instances a small tract has brought as much as $4000 an acre. The Pocahontas coal lands of West Virginia have brought as much as $700 an acre, and it is doubtful if any can be had for less than $150 an acre. Were the lands of the Big Sandy Company to be valued at one-third less than any of the Pocahontas lands, the property would be worth $13,000,000, while the present top-notch price of the Pocahontas lands would run the valuation up to $52,000,000, and the lowest valuation of the Connellsville lands would show the tremendous aggregate of $156,000,000.

It is considered a conservative estimate that there are 10,000 tons of coal to the acre throughout the tract of the Big Sandy Company. This would give 1,300,000,000 tons of coal as the minimum possible production. At $1 a ton at the mouth of the mine—and during a term of years it would likely often run much more rather than less—the stupendous sum of $1,300,000,000 would represent the value of the coal in this tract, while if the coal were to be all mined out on royalties—in cents is the royalty received by the company, and it will not be less—the profits of the company, simply sitting with its hands folded and its till open, would amount to $13,000,000.

But as I mentioned in an article on Eastern Kentucky developments, printed in the Manufacturers' Record of July 23 a year ago, it has been for years an idea of the Big Sandy Company that the extensive manufacture of coke should be fostered and encouraged, not alone through coke plants on the railroad spur near the mines, but through by-product plants at important manufacturing centers. It was stated in the article referred to that the company had been in correspondence with the by-product plants of several large cities, so that efforts from the first have been made along lines that will procure the most profitable development of the property. What progress has been made in this direction has not been announced, but I understand that plans are under consideration which, when perfected, would demonstrate a development of the property of the Big Sandy Company in a way greatly more profitable than would be the mere mining of coal by operators on royalties sold to the company.

I am informed that there are at this time 10 operators at work on the property of the Big Sandy Company along the branch line of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad extending from Reading for eight miles to the Marstonville creek. All are experienced and successful operators from the Pocahontas fields of West Virginia and from Pennsylvania. From out of the list of applicants the company was enabled to make selection of one of the strongest and best. It is the calculation that within a few months the production from the mines on the Big Sandy Company's property will aggregate 2,000,000 tons a year, and that it will be gradually still further increased. The extension of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad's Big Sandy branch from Whitesboro to Elkhorn, near the Brecks of the Big Sandy, a distance of 17 miles was completed in July of last year as a culmination of negotiations between the Big Sandy and the railroad companies, and the Marstonville branch was built by the two interests shortly afterwards. The South & Western Railroad, the Geo. T. Carter enterprise, which is backed by the Blair-Hyman-Coleman syndicate, is under construction to a junction with the Chesapeake & Ohio at Elkhorn City. So a very general and important development of the entire property of the Big Sandy Company is well under way.

It took much patience, pluck and perseverance, however, to bring about the conditions of today, and in the achievement there is afforded a very excellent illustration of Yankee grit. New England shrewdness is further more demonstrated in the ownership, the stock of the company being almost exclusively held by residents of Boston. The moving spirit in the enterprise has been Mr. Charles E. Heller, a young lawyer from Maine who had settled in Boston, and who came down into Kentucky some 20 years ago to see what might be done in the way of securing for Eastern clients some salvage from the wreck of the old Charleston, Cincinnati & Chicago Railroad (the Three Cs, as it was commonly called). The Elkhorn coal lands owned by the company were very carefully examined by Mr. Heller, and the possibility of a great future for the district strongly appealed to him. From almost the first suspicion of the property he began to work out plans for buying the property, adding to the acreage and bringing about a development through railroad construction. At that time wild lands in Kentucky were not in high repute, and were salable at hardly more than nominal figures, $5 an acre, indeed, being considered an extravagant price. Getting together an organization, Mr. Heller and associates began the acquisition of what is now the 120,000-acre tract of splendid coal lands owned by the Big Sandy Company. Mr. Ralph A. Heller, a brother, went right into the field, and for more than 10 years, and until his lamentable death a few weeks ago, devoted his entire time to consolidating ownerships, getting together a compact body of lands and perfecting plans for the mining of the coal. The magnificent promise as they stand today constitute a living monument to those endeavors.

It is impossible to definitely calculate the ultimate value of this tract or to limit the dividends that will be paid. At the lowest conceivable amount of profits they will be sufficient to give colossal fortunes to scores of stockholders and to make the name of Big Sandy famous among the dividend-payers of the world.

ALBERT PHILKINS

Graded Course for Public Schools

Frankfort, Ky.—State Superintendent J. H. Fuqua has completed and sent to County Superintendents over the State a pamphlet giving a graded course of study for the common schools of Kentucky and a programme for daily recitations in the schools, which he thinks will be of great aid to the teachers in their work. A copy of the pamphlet, which is authorized by the State Board of Education, will be placed in the hands of every teacher in the State at once. The pamphlet is the result of a meeting held here some weeks ago, participated in by the Superintendents in a number of counties of the State, and at which meeting Prof. Fuqua and County Superintendents L. N. Taylor, of Pulaski county; J. W. Hush, of Washington county; and B. M. Money, of Shelby county, were appointed a committee to prepare a practical course of study and daily programme for use in the schools.

In presenting the pamphlet to those interested in the cause of education Superintendent Fuqua writes as follows:

After consultation with quite a number of our best county superintendents, it was the unanimous decision that there was great need for a graded course of study and programme for recitations in the common schools. Superintendents L. N. Taylor, of Pulaski county; J. W. Hush, of Washington county; and B. M. Money, of Shelby county, were appointed a committee to prepare such a course of study and programme for recitations as shall be declared suitable and practical. I think they have done good work, and I hereby tender thanks to them for their co-operation and valuable assistance.

I urge all superintendents in the State to see that a copy of this pamphlet is in the hands of each teacher and that they follow its directions as nearly as conditions will permit. I know that if they will do so, it will aid them greatly in their daily work. I also urge the patrons, through the teachers, to co-operate with the teachers and make special efforts to put their children into school at the commencement of the season, and not allow them to lose any time if it can possibly be prevented. It is impossible to have a successful school and suitable advancement on the part of pupils if they are not prompt and punctual in attendance.

Our schools will never attain efficiency until we can have the mutual and cordial co-operation of superintendent, patron and pupil. My most ardent desire is to see the children of our State trained and educated to ideal manhood and womanhood. This standard is not too high, and it can be reached if the friends of education will exert themselves and make their influence to be felt. I confidently look forward to the time when such a condition will prevail in our beloved Commonwealth. I appeal to all Kentuckians to aid me in this work, assuring them that it shall not be "love's labor lost."

Judge M. M. Redwine.

The Kentucky State Journal says: Governor Beckham recently announced the appointment of Judge M. M. Redwine, of Sandy Hook, Elliott county, as a Circuit Judge of the new 32nd judicial district created by the last session of the Legislature out of the counties of Carter, Elliott, Morgan and Lawrence, which were taken from surrounding districts.

The appointment of Judge Redwine to this official position is an especially meritorious one. After serving as Commonwealth's Attorney of the 20th district with splendid success, Judge Redwine returned to private life, but was nominated by the Democrats of Carter and Elliott counties for the Legislature, and in the general election won by overwhelming majority, defeating a very strong Republican and redeeming the 10th district to Democracy.

In the lower House, Judge Redwine was a vigorous and able leader for much of the beneficial legislation which became enacted into law making special efforts in behalf of the County Fair bill and to tax the retailers. He has been importuned by many of the temperance leaders to make the race for lieutenant governor, but prefers to stand for election to succeed himself, when the regular election time for the judgeship of this district rolls round. Judge Redwine will make a capable and conscientious judge and will likely have no opposition.

Attorney John M. Wainch, of Grayson county, who will move into the 32nd district from the 20th will be the new Commonwealth's Attorney of that district, while Attorney William T. Cole, of Greenup, both prominent Democrats, will succeed Wainch as prosecutor for the State in the 20th.

Some Mistakes.

If an editor makes a mistake he has to apologize for it, but if a doctor makes it he buries it. If the editor makes one there is a lawsuit, swearing and the smell of sulphur, but if the doctor makes one there is a funeral, cut flowers and the smell of vermin. A doctor can use a word a yard long without knowing what it means, but if the editor uses it he has to spell it. If a doctor goes to see another man's wife he charges for the visit, but if an editor goes to see another man's wife he gets a charge of backshot. When a doctor gets drunk, it's a case of "over come by heat," and if he dies, it is heart trouble. When the editor gets drunk it's a case of too much booze, and if he dies it's a case of delirium tremens. Any old college can make a doctor. You can't make an editor, he has to be born—EX.

FRIDAY, July 27, 1906.

The Standard Oil Company is cancelling many of its leases in the Kentucky oil fields.

Mrs. Azalia Thompson, an aged woman of Lorado, Ark., committed suicide by driving two tenpenny nails into her head.

After being shot twice in the abdomen, Mack Woods, colored, Sunday at Somerset, took the pistol away from Marshal Wilder, who had shot him, and killed Wilder.

Argument on the application for bond in the case of John Abner and Joe Smith, charged with the murder of Dr. Cox, at Jackson, Ky., has been postponed at Irvine until July 31st.

Lewis McQuown, chairman of the Democratic State Central and Executive Committee, has issued a statement in which he pledges himself and the committee to do all in their power to insure a fair primary when the Democratic nominees are selected.

State Executive Committee-man Will A. Young, of the Ninth district, has called a meeting of the Democratic Committee of that district, to be held at Ashland tomorrow, July 28, for the purpose of arranging time and manner of making a nomination for Congress.

John W. Langley, of the Tenth Kentucky district, appointed clerk in the Census Bureau, left today on a trip that will embrace several Western States. He will begin the work of collecting data for the proposed census report on marriage and divorce. Mr. Langley will later visit Kentucky. He will probably put up his lightning rod for the Republican nomination for Congress in the Tenth.

Napoleon Bonaparte Hays, the man that "grasped without remorse and without shame, the diadems of the Caesars," has been set apart by the two Kentucky Senators—Blackburn and McCreary—as the Anti-Administration Candidate for Governor. "To what base usages" they "return, Horatio," in the days of their political decadence.—Up-the-river paper.

What all this editor? Billions grip? The State Journal adds this observation to the discussion now under way as to whether Mr. James will or will not be a candidate for the Governorship, "we do not believe that it is ever necessary to drag a man into a race by the hair of his head." The Times takes this opportunity to offer a leather medal to any gentleman who can discover sufficient hair on Mr. James' head with which to drag him into either a campaign or a barber shop.—Times.

State Superintendent Fuqua called a meeting of the State Boards of Regents for Kentucky Normal Schools to be held in Frankfort on Tuesday of next week, for the purpose of taking steps, if possible, to open the schools early in the fall. Treasurer R. E. Turley, of the Eastern Board, called at the Department of State Auditor Hager and secured a warrant for the $5,000 due for equipment of the Eastern School, located at Richmond. J. Whit Potter, treasurer for the Western Board, will arrive in Frankfort Monday for the same purpose.

For that Dandruff

There is one thing that will cure it—Ayer's Hair Vigor. It is a regular scalp-medicine. It quickly destroys the germs which cause this disease. The unhealthy scalp becomes healthy. The dandruff disappears, had to disappear. A healthy scalp means a great deal to you—healthy hair, no dandruff, no pimples, no eruptions.

SHADY GROVE.

Farmers are unusually late this season in getting through with their crops, due to the continued rainfall. Wheat threshing is now in full blast, and shows up a fine yield. We have not for years noticed such a heavy crop of berries and fruit in general as is now at hand.

Several schools in this community and adjacent districts opened last Monday, July 16, with rather small attendance, owing to parents being delayed with their work.

Sam J. Jobe is again employed to teach Shady Grove school. This is his fourth term here, and judging the future by the past, we feel sure of a good school this year.

Miss Flora Sparks, of Yatesville, is visiting her sister, Mrs. S. J. Jobe, of this place.

Mrs. Maude Dean, of Daniels creek, accompanied her two little daughters to our school last Monday.

Berry picking just now is the liveliest order of the day.

Smith Jobe will leave this week for Cabin Creek, W. Va., where he accepts a position with Mr. Moran, a coal operator.

The little strife and confusion which came up among our neighbors a few weeks ago has about passed by. We cannot see why people in this splendid, enlightened, moralized, Sunday School country of ours will unthoughtfully give rise to conduct that only puts a stain on the reputation of the community, instead of joining in an effort to dispel every cloud of immorality that hangs over our own beloved country.

J. L. Jobe and brother are doing a good mercantile business.

We noticed in last week's items from Twin Branch that the writer had but little regard for the truth. We hope that such iniquitous use of the good old NEWS will be stopped.

J. M. Dalton, a prominent young farmer and school teacher, and Mr. Smith, of Hicksville, were visiting friends and relatives here recently.

Peace and good will to all and long live the NEWS. Two Sisters.

FALLSBURG.

Thomas Collinsworth's wife has commenced teaching our school and has a very good attendance considering it being so early in the season. Some of the children are kept at home to work and pick berries, but the berries will soon be gone.

There is no sickness in Fallsburg at present.

Anthony Maltravers is going to build a nice two-story dwelling house on his father-in-law's place, near Hutchison's. He is now working at the foundation.

Wm. Savage was here a few days ago accompanied by Theodore Roosevelt.

Old Mr. Murphy, the blind man, was on Horseford last Sunday, stopping with Martin Defoe.

There has been so much rain that water in Blaine is too muddy for any body to catch fish, but Robert Cain still grinds all the corn that comes in.

The wind storm that came last night laid a great deal of the big corn flat, never to rise again.

The people are still picking berries to sell to Mr. Collinsworth at Potter.

J. A. Collinsworth has bought a fine buggy, and is now ready for driving.

Uncle George Skeens is getting ready to visit his daughter, Mrs. Walter Sparks, in W. Va.

Dr. Sparks is here now on a visit. Several of the teachers are attending the institute and report a nice time.

"THE BIG STORE"

July Clearance Sales.

We are rapidly clearing up the surplus stock in our departments this month to make ready for new goods soon to arrive. Every day is bargain day here while this sale lasts. Not only are we selling what we advertise at a price but many of the choice offerings to be found here we have no room to make mention of and this fact makes it doubly important that you pay this store a visit. Commencing Monday morning at 9 o'clock we place on sale the following:

Three Special Offerings.

WASH SILKS, 25c.

We offer all stock in pure wash silks while they last at the above price—true we haven't a large stock left but there are bargains here in this department for those who come early. These silks sold earlier in the season for 50c, 60c, and 75c, per yard.

Black Silk Coats at Half Price.

We offer one rack of ladies' long black silk coats made from pure taffeta silk trimmed elaborately and tailored in the newest effects and stylishly made for exclusive dressers. Profits are not considered in our clearance sale—we have too many and they must go and at prices marked for quick selling. Don't be last or you will be left, is an appropriate saying about these silks.

White Suits One-Fourth Off.

A reduction that usually comes in most stores a month or six weeks after. All the new styles and effects in embroidered Eton styles and shirtwaist styles trimmed in embroidery and lace supplemented with hemstitching and insertion. A reduction on the stylish garments right in the height of the season will be appreciated and will no doubt make us friends enough to compensate for our loss in profit.

WATCH OUR ADS. THERE IS GOOD NEWS YET TO FOLLOW.

A citizen living at Richardson reports that typhoid fever is almost epidemic in that locality. An analysis of the drinking water used by the people of that section might reveal the source of the infection and prevent the spread of the disease.

ing it would be impossible for their

W. D. O'Neal says he has a scythe and whetstone to lend to all citizens who will use it in cutting the dog cannel in the streets adjacent to their property. Now if the people will only keep that scythe busy for a week or two our streets will present a much better appearance and the sanitary conditions will be greatly improved. A little work by each citizen will put the finishing touches on our otherwise beautiful little city.

boutique at the feet of his best girl:
"There is gladness in her gladness when she's glad, there is sadness in her sadness when she's sad. But the gladness of her gladness nor the sadness of her sadness is nothing to her madness when she's mad."

Horseback riding is a pleasant and healthful recreation, but it has its drawbacks, as Miss Ethel Spencer can testify. While riding with other young ladies Tuesday her saddle turned and she fell to the ground and was carried home in a agony.
Fortunately no bones were broken, but she sustained a painfully sprained knee. The accident occurred on Main Cross street, opposite the Court House.

the name of Benjamin Howard Noe.

The Story of My Farmer Boy.

You ought to have seen the letters that I got from those hundred boys. If you should drop into my old office some Saturday afternoon when it is raining and we haven't much to do, I will show you letters that money could not buy. One little fellow down there at Brighton wrote me and said: "My dear friend—I received the dollar bill you sent me for which I thank you. I am a little orphan boy nine years old. I live with my uncle and aunt who are very kind to me. This is the first dollar I have ever owned in all my life and I am going to keep it just as long as I live for a nest egg."

I wrote that little fellow as usual a letter as I knew how to write him. Told him I hoped he would grow up to be a good man and that I wanted to hear from him until he was fully grown, and one day while I was making a talk over at Bunker Hill a little fellow scrambled up on the platform and coming up to me said, "Don't you know me?" "Why yes, where did I see you before?" "Why, I am that little nest egg fellow from Brighton." (Laughter.)

And then about the boy that won the bicycle. I was sure when I found his history that he would be a rich man's son, but I want to promise you tonight that when I found the history of the boy who won the $100 bicycle he turned out to be a little bit of a poor scrap of a boy that lived away out on Brush Mound, and he had raised a little garden on a little thin piece of ground that would hardly be fit to raise cucumbers on. And, when I found the history of that boy, I found that he had earned water all summer long in an old powder can to water that corn, and when I took him up on the platform that night and stood him up on my table in the presence of twenty-five hundred farmers and introduced him to them as the champion farmer boy of that county, I want to say that your governor here in Chicago never received a heartier ovation that he did, and he never deserved it any more either. (Applause.)

When I went to St. Louis during the World's Fair with the agricultural department of the state of Illinois, Governor Yates told me that the one condition upon which I might go was that I would take my farmer boys with me. Well, that was the only condition that I would go on, and so I got up $3,500 worth of premiums and I sent out a list of those premiums to 120,000 farmer boys in the state of Illinois and eight thousand of them responded, packed their corn and sent it to me at Carlinville, and there we put it up on racks to dry, and after it was dry every ear was wrapped in a nice piece of paper and then packed with deft fingers and sent to St. Louis. And there we built large pyramids of ten ears of corn, and deftly stretched a little string of green ribbon over each one of them and put on the name of the boy who had raised it. Then I thought I would like to have a photograph of it. You know when we hear of anybody we like to see the color of his hair and see what he looks like. So I sent out to the boys and asked them to send me their photographs to put upon their corn. Six hundred boys sent me their pictures, and I tacked the picture onto the boys' corn and there was the whole story of his summer work.

One morning when I was at St. Louis, I got a telephone message from the eastern part of the state. It said, "Is this Mr. Otwell?" I said "Yes." He said, "You have my boy's corn at St. Louis, and yesterday we took the little fellow around and tucked him under the blue-grass at the brow of the hill. I wonder if you would like to have his picture with his corn?" And I told him I should, and when the picture came I got on a street car and took it down to Crawford's dry goods store and got a nice little frame for it, and then I took it to the ribbon counter and told the girl the story of the boy, and told her I would come back in about an hour and asked her to fix it up just as nice as she could. When I came back she had fixed it up very prettily and I took the photograph out with me and set it up by the boy's corn without a word on the picture, and I promise you now, as I sat in my office, which was within ten feet of the boy's corn, that if there was one there were ten thousand old farmers, who, as they came ambulating down those aisles and came to that picture with its black frame and its drapery, took out their old handkerchiefs and rubbed the sweat off their faces, of course. And they did not say a word, but went on down the aisle. Oh, I knew what they were thinking. I had thought the same thought a thousand times before.

And, there, my friends, is the story of the boy who has twelve thousand of them now, and I want to tell you that when the last day of the fair came and all that corn was to be pulled down and taken away as souvenirs by the St. Louis school children, the day before I gathered together my help and we went out and took every photograph down. I did not trust them to any express company or any freight office. I put them in my grip and carried them home, and there they are on my office walls today, to watch me in every sentence I write, in every thought I think.

And then, again, I thought of the banner which we had put up over the corn raised by those farmer boys of Illinois and which most of the people had stopped to admire and to comment upon the efforts of those eight thousand boys. I did not trust that banner to anybody. I took it down and folded it up carefully, put it in my own grip and shipped it to my own office and there tonight it hangs above the pictures of the farmer boys of Illinois, and I want it to stay there just as long as it may.

That is the story of my boys, my friends. God bless the farmer boys of Illinois and teach them to be good and great and strong, for I promise you tonight, my friends, that the farmer boys of this land will in the future, more largely than in the past, have to do with the shaping of the world's affairs. (Applause.)

WATER FOR HOGS

Don't keep sow and pigs or grown hogs in a dry lot during the hot months. Hogs must have a bathing place to have health. Dig a hole large enough for two hogs, and keep it full of water. If you have to draw it from a well every day. The writer has seen a number of fat hogs die on a warm day for the want of drinking and bathing water. Better listen to these words!

THE LOCUST BORERS.

The Department of Agriculture has just issued an interesting bulletin on the locust borer which will prove valuable to the owners of many locust groves in Kentucky. This little beetle lays its eggs on the bark of the trees and the larvae begin boring into the wood shortly afterwards, and keep it up until the most valuable locust timber will be ruined in course of time. To fight this pest the department suggests several methods, as follows: Cutting the trees between November and May, which will kill the eggs and larvae; harking trees in August and burning the bark to accomplish the same purpose; immersing cut logs in water; collecting the beetles from goldenrod flowers; using poisoned bait, and propagating trees immune from the borer in several ways.

SUBSTITUTES FOR CORN.

The Agriculturist appeals to its former friends to sow rape for carrying the hogs through the summer months in good health, so that they can be fitted for making lard, sweet hams and shoulders on the farm. The city people are disgusted with the meat and lard that are put up in the packing houses of the West. The lard that comes from such packing houses is not fit for any human's stomach. Farmers, hear us! Grow your hogs, kill and cure at home, and the bacon will pay larger profit than shipping them to the packers.

Clean and pure lard put up in the country homes of the tidy women will sell for two cents a pound more than the packing house combination lard. There is a liquid free from any chemical preservatives which if applied to the hams, will preserve in the best manner.

New Things.

The most popular pieces of jewelry now are neck chains with cross pendants, and bracelets in a variety of styles. Conley's store has a new supply.

Rogers, Wallace and sterling silver spoons in attractive patterns at Conley's.

The handsomest line of odd pieces of china and cut glass at Conley's, Haviland China and Libby cut glass at same prices or less than you pay in the city.

Spectacles, rimless glasses, to fit any ordinary case of defective vision.

Don't forget that we carry a large line of books; and bibles, periodicals and novels.

Everything in stationery and office supplies.

Those $5 clocks at Conley's are the handsomest to be had anywhere at the price. CONLEY'S STORE, Louisville, Ky.

HALF THE WORLD WONDERS how the other half lives. Those who use Huckle's Arnica Salve never wonder if it will cure Cuts, Wounds, Burns, Sores and all Skin eruptions; they know it will. Mrs. Grant Shy, 1130 E. Reynolds St., Springfield, Ill., says: "I regard it one of the absolute necessities of housekeeping." Guaranteed by A. M. Hughes, druggist. 25c.

Early Day Doctors.

A writer in the Cynthiana News has been furnishing that paper with some very interesting reminiscences of the early settlement of that section of Kentucky. The following extract will amuse if it doesn't instruct:

DOCTORS.

As for the disciples of Esculapian not one of them trod the soil of this town or neighborhood from the year 1780 until about the year 1840. It may be asked how sick folks got along in that 20 years or more. In the first place men who lived a great deal in the open air, and got meat from the forests and glens, tender venison, the juicy bear, the substantial buffalo, the delicate turkey, pheasant, partridge, squirrel, and in place of pork the fat opossum, and these all taken in the hunt, with the rifle and hunting dogs, and all this food sweetened by toll made men healthy, and they rarely got sick. In these days if a man took cold the remedy was to drink down a half-pint or a pint of bear's oil—the quantity depended upon the capacity of a man's stomach, then lay down before a log fire in the woods, wrapped up in his blanket and if it snowed three or four inches deep on him in the night it was all the better, and when he awoke in the morning and shook the snow off his blanket as the lion would the dew drops from his mane, the man was well of his cold, and fully prepared to take up his rifle and renew the hunt. If a man was taken sick in his fort or cabin the women were the doctors. Then the Elecampagna and Comfrey and Hittay tea were the sovereign remedies successfully used, and occasionally the comb of a hornet nest was scorching before the fire and a tea made of it, and drank without scruple, and covered up in a blanket or buffalo rug, producing a copious sweat worked wonders. If a hornet's nest was not to be had, sage tea was used. But a good sweat was an indispensable thing. In case of measles, which did not hurt much in those days, all the patient had to do was to keep out of the wet, unless the case was more severe than usual, then sheep-brain tea was prescribed; about a quart of that condiment swallowed down at night was certain to effect a cure. In case of the bloody flux, very uncommon in those days, a sovereign remedy was used and is to this day the best of all. It was a simple remedy and always successful and for the benefit of the present generation I will record it in my history.

RECIPE.

Take about 2 pounds of the inner bark of the white oak tree, taken off near the root on the north side, the bark there being the thickest and strongest, put the bark in an iron vessel with a gallon of water, boil it down to a quart, then take out the bark and add a quart of new milk and a lump of sugar about the size of a duck egg, boil that down to a quart; when cooled a little it is fit for use.

DOSE.

Half a common teaspoonful, and two large tablespoonful, and every two hours after two tablespoonful, and continued until the pains in the rectum or lower bowel cease, then hold on. If after that the pains should return, commence again with the same treatment. But the first course generally produced the desired effect. Then let nature do her perfect work, and in a day or two the bleeding ulcers in the rectum would slough off and all pass off in the natural way, and the patient is well. Don't wait to cleanse the bowels by putting calomel down the throat, for if you do you unlock the liver and let down bile upon the bleeding ulcers and then you might as well speak for your coffin. This course in a practice of 70 years always cured the disease if taken in time.

It is true some of the old ladies were a little tinctorious with a superstitious notion that the bark had to be peeled upward and the water dipped up stream. But in the fullness of time that notion has been exploded—however, to do so did no harm.

Mr. Robert O. Burke, Elmira, N. I had given up hope of living, when a friend recommended Foley's Kidney Cure. One 50 cent bottle worked wonders and before I had taken the third bottle the dropsy had gone, as well as all other symptoms of Bright's disease."

A REAL DAUGHTER OF THE REVOLUTION

CHAPTER XVI. YORKTOWN

It was gray dawn when she rode into the inn stable-yard, but there was no stir about the premises, and she found the stable-door open, as she had left it. While she was putting up her horse and slipping back to her room the British were returning from their fruitless attack. That afternoon, when Bessener rode out from among the trees and redoubts of Yorktown to welcome her and her aunt to the fortified town, he little suspected that it was this girl who had compassed his defeat.

The Ellerys found Edward quite as ill as Bessener's letter had led them to suppose, and for the next few weeks their lands were full with nursing him. When they arrived the town was an air of careless ease. Young officers in gay uniforms swarmed through its streets, their talk and boasts of what would be done when reinforcements from Sir Henry Clinton arrived or when the British fleet came; but gradually all this changed. One day hope ran high; the British fleet had been sighted; it was coming; the next, there was the bottomless pit of despair. The fleet was De Grasse's.

Next came information of Washington's arrival, then news that the French and American forces were marching forward from Williamsburg. On the twenty-eighth the town was thrown into a panic. The front column of the approaching armies had been sighted. Orders dashed hither and thither; the lines of soldiers were put in motion; the numbering of the works was strengthened. The besiegers came, the British abandoned their outer works and hoisted within the intrenchments; the siege had begun.

During all the worry and excitement of these troublous times Bessener did not neglect duty or fail to look after her comfort as well as he could. It was no secret among those high enough up to know that, had Cornwallis followed the advice of his colonel of dragons, he would have made a bold dash out of Yorktown ere the allied forces had a chance to join him up. Even now Bessener begged his commander to make the attempt, and so far prevailed as to win from him permission to make the first essay.

Returning from the conference with his chief, he stopped to see Jane and took her into his confidence sufficiently to tell her something of the enterprise he had on foot.

"If we succeed, sweetheart," he said, "if we get out of this hole where we are held like mice in a trap, then we shall be able to turn the tables upon these allies and bring the war to a speedy close; then, I shall, at last, claim the fulfillment of your promise and carry you back to England with me as my wife."

"Oh, Bessener," said Jane, who tried more than once to interrupt him, "I thank you for the confidence you have reposed in me this afternoon, but I feel that I have been most remiss in receiving it without first acquainting you with something which, when you learn of it, may cause you no longer to desire me for your wife."

Bessener leaned forward. "You mean—?" he said.

Then, with voice which faltered not a little under the growing anger in his eyes, she acquainted him with her side to war Lafayette's ally Bessener's brow darkened; his lips compressed. Pushing back his chair, he walked to the window. "And so," he said, turning to her at last, "you thought to serve a double purpose by your treachery? To avert the perils of your lover, and to forge a means of making me repent the wish to make you my wife? You have miscalculated in the last. You shall marry me. And I, then, did not other matters press, we would be wedded to-night; but as it is, the delay will not be for long, and I will take care that my wife shall be loyal."

He strode from the room. Jane sat for a moment, trembling under the lash of his anger and not less under the misconstruction he had put upon the motive of her confession; then she moved towards the window. She looked out upon an October sunset. To the north and west a crimson curtain had been dropped, and against this curtain was clearly the figure of Col. Bessener as he rode towards the river.

A heavy fog had wrapped the little town and its environments in a chill embrace when, next morning, the British rode out from their quarters. It was not yet four o'clock, and the sun had not thought of rising, nor was there a streak of dawn. The troops rode silently, for their mission must be performed quietly or not at all. It was, in truth, to capture some new batteries on the French side which had only been completed the day before and were supposed to be poorly guarded. If the effort were successful, it was proposed to throw the whole weight of the British army against the weakened point and cut through a road of escape.

Bessener and his legion were in the lead, for it was his plan and he was to take the brunt of its execution. He and his men went forward gallantly; they swarmed upon the batteries; they captured them—but, ere the rest of the British force could come up, the alarm had been sounded along the French and American lines; guards rushed to the relief of the assailed point, and the British were driven back, leaving their dead and wounded strewn along the batteries; leaving there too the body of their leader.

It was the last attempt of the British ever one to escape from the toils which held them, and when that last effort had been made and foiled, it was little wonder that Lord Cornwallis gave up in despair, nor that he should send proposals for surrender to Mr. Washington.

The day of the surrender dawned fair, but Jane refused to go with her triumphant aunt to see the spectacle. She felt that it was a small enough act of loyalty towards both the dead Bessener and the living Edward to remain away from a scene that would have been so humiliating to both had they been present to witness it.

But Aunt Susannah was deterred by no such scruples, and, arrayed in all the finery she could muster, with her head held very high, she set forth to view the pageant.

The spectacle was well worth coming miles to see, and many had come. There was a surprising concourse of onlookers considering the smallness of the town, the poor facilities for travel between the place of surrender and the surrounding country, as well as the haste with which the whole affair had been arranged.

Upon the left stretched the long line of French troops; upon the right, the even longer line of Americans with Washington, the one splendid figure, upon his white charger at their head. The appearance of the triumphant armies was shabby. The uniforms showed the hard work of the siege; the mud stains of the trenches; the powder burns; the mildew patches woven by foggy nights and hot days. Of the Americans, many were threadbare, and not a few in tatters.

Between these faded columns came the British in their bright new clothes which Cornwallis had that morning, in a final spirit of lavishness, ordered issued; but if their garb was bright their faces were in contrast. With sullen countenances, downcast eyes, and leaden tread they marched down the long, wide aisles that had been left for them, their colors faded and their drums beating sardonically that appropriate tune, "The World is Turned Upside Down."

It was after the ceremonies were over that Mrs. Ellery and Geoffrey met, for young Worthington, it seemed, was a captain of infantry in Gen. Washington's army, and his had been one of the very companies that engaged in the defeat of Bessener on the foggy morning so fatal to that warrior. Nothing would do but Aunt Susannah must carry him back in triumph with her to the house where she and Jane and Edward were quartered, and on the way Mrs. Ellery's tongue was not idle.

As they entered the door-way of the house Jane was just descending the stairs, on her way to the dining-room for some food for Edward. At sight of Geoffrey the color—considerably dimmed by events of the past months—flushed her cheeks, and she laid her hand upon the balustrade for support. It was surprising how a simple woman as Aunt Susannah could melt away so quickly, but disappear she did, and Worthington and Jane were left the only occupants of the hall.

"Jane!" He came swiftly towards her. "Jane, your aunt has just told me what you have done, what you were to do for my sake, of sacrifices you had made and were to make to save my life. My God, to think that you could have sacrificed yourself thus far me, and that I, fool, politician, should have misread you, should have—Jane, can you forgive the words I spoke at your father's house the last night we were together? Can you, perhaps, still care a little for a man so dull that he could not read your too generous heart right, and must needs have it interpreted for him by others? Tell me, Jane, can you care for such a one?"

The gay strains of a martial band passing the house drifted in from the street as he bent his head to receive his answer.

THE END.

Farmers' Institute begins Sept. 1.

Commissioner of Agriculture Herbert Vreeland has sent out the following letter to farmers of the State apprising them of the preparation of schedules for the Farmers' Institutes which will be held this year, and of plans:

"I am now engaged in preparing a schedule for the farmers' institutes to be held in Kentucky during the coming institute season, which will open not later than September 1. This department will hold at least one institute in every county in the State this year, and as soon as the schedule is completed it will be published so that every county will know just when its annual institute will be held. These dates will be made to conform to the wishes of the various clubs as nearly as possible, but as the holding of 119 institutes is such a tremendous undertaking, it will be necessary to proceed with system and to take the counties consecutively from the starting point.

"There will be two lecture forces; one for the eastern section and one for the central and western. These forces will be kept going constantly until the entire State has been covered. You will readily realize that this will entail considerable hard work and the hearty co-operation of the farmers will aid the department greatly in carrying out the project. The best lectures to be found will be employed and, with the aid of the farmers, I have no hesitancy in saying that this movement will be fraught with more practical results than any movement ever set on foot in the State.

"I, therefore, respectfully urge that every farmer lend a helping hand and assist in making institute work in Kentucky what it is in Ohio, Illinois, Iowa and other progressive agricultural States. Kentucky has the soil and the climate conditions that should make her take front rank in the line of agricultural States and it is my earnest desire that she should take the place that is rightfully hers.

"As you are probably aware, the last Legislature increased the appropriation of this department $20,000, making the total appropriation for institute work and the general conduct of the office $33,000 annually instead of $13,000. Without the co-operation of the farmers, I could not have brought this bureau into such prominence as to cause the legislative body of our State to increase the appropriation to such an extent, when only a short while before it was regarded as a mere drain on the public funds. It is therefore my earnest desire to bring this department as close to the people as possible, and in that way alone I hope to make it of practical value to each and every farmer in the State of Kentucky.

"Feeling assured that you will help me to give the results I pledged you when I was entrusted with the management of this office, and assuring you that this department stands ready at all times to aid the farmers of your county and of the State in a practical way, I beg to remain, very sincerely yours,

"HERBERT VREELAND,
"Commissioner."

VALUABLE LESSONS.

We have in our community a number of boys and men whose names could be written on the lazy list without doing them an injustice. Solomon was something of a naturalist in connection with his many other accomplishments. Being also of a practical cast of mind he was able to turn his knowledge to good advantage. In the commonplace things of life he found many valuable lessons for man. In the diminutive ant he discovered habits of life which put to shame the slothful, and so when he beheld the human curbstone ornaments, and the fellows who loved to sit upon dry goods boxes of his day, he said:

"Go to the ant, thou sluggard; consider her ways and be wise.

"Which having no guide, overseer, or ruler,

"Provideth her meat in the summer, and gathereth her food in the harvest."

If industry is a virtue, laziness may consistently be treated as a crime. Sociologists are agreed that the child who has nothing to do is in a bad way. Parents and guardians who go upon the theory that an occasional job of work will tend to stunt the growth of their offspring, lay the foundation for careers which will prove not a blessing, but a curse.

PICKING FRUIT.

Fruit picking is in some ways similar to the battle of life. There are many number of people who are ready and willing to pick the small, half-ripe fruit near the ground, but only on occasional one who will make the effort necessary to secure the large, ripe, full grown fruit on the upper branches. It takes some nerve and considerable grit to reach those cherries on the topmost branch, and it takes nerve, good judgment, and a never faltering purpose to gain those things in the battle of life that are really worth the attaining.

There are hundreds of applicants for the easy work of picking fruit near the ground; there are hundreds of applicants for the easy work of the commonplace jobs. Too many people never realize to what heights they might attain, simply because they are too apt to be content with those things easy of achievement. That which requires long and constant effort to secure, usually worth the having once its possession is obtained.

The school boy should early learn the lesson that the ripest, biggest cherries are at the top and that nine out of ten of his fellows will be crowding for places to pick around the base of the tree where the small, wormy fruit grows. There is plenty of room at the top; there are plenty of cherries growing there. The incalculable fruit is ready for the picking and ever smiles a welcome to the hustler to climb up and obtain possession. The best things in life require considerable effort to get, and that's why the strongest men and women have them.

INFLUENCE OF EXAMPLE.

The natural education of the home is prolonged far into life. Indeed it never entirely ceases. But the time arrives, in the process of years, when the home ceases to exercise an exclusive influence on the formation of character and it is succeeded by the more artificial education of the school and the companionship of friends and comrades which continues to mould the character by the powerful influences of example. Men of all ages cannot help imitating those with whom they associate. If young men are wisely influenced and directed and exert their own free energies, they will seek the society of those better than themselves and strive to imitate their example. There are persons whom to know is to love, honor and admire, and others whom to know is to shun and despise. Live with persons of elevated character and you will feel lifted up in them.

"Live with wolves," says the Spanish proverb, "and you will learn to howl." The life of every man is a daily indication of good or bad example to others. The life of a good man is at the same time the most eloquent lesson of virtue and the most severe reproof of vice. There are men in whose presence we feel as if we breathed spiritual ozone, refreshing and invigorating, like inhaling mountain air or enjoying a bath of sunshine. The golden words that good men have uttered, the examples they have set, live through all time. These help undispensed facts show carefully our young people should select their associates and be found only with those whose examples they can take pride in following.

Don't look on the bright side of anything. Don't permit yourself to see good in anyone. Don't have any character for your erring brother or sister. If you have any of the milk of human kindness in your heart curdle it in some way. Believe that all men and women, too, are liars and the truth is not in them. Find fault with your fellowman. Say mean things about your neighbor; envy her; hate her; seek your own; scrape if you don't get it; think evil; rejoice in iniquity; endure nothing; believe nothing; and if you are not completely miserable and unhappy it is because you have not yet quenched the last vital spark of love in your being.

STATE CONVENTION.

Annual Sunday School Convention to be Held at Clyffside.

41st Annual Convention of the Kentucky Sunday School Association, August 21, 22, 23, 1906, Clyffside Park, Kentucky's Greatest Interdenominational, Inspirational, Educational, Informational Sunday School Gathering. Ten Sunday School Experts of State, National and International Fame.

This Convention is one of a World-wide Series that stands for better and larger Sunday Schools in every church of every evangelical denomination in the world. You'll miss it if you miss it.

Ashland is a beautiful little city of about 8,000 inhabitants, as hospitable a people as the sun ever shown upon. Catlettsburg, five miles away, is its twin sister and equally as attractive, about 4,000. The two cities are connected by an electric car line. The Convention will be held in the auditorium at beautiful Clyffside Park. A more ideal place could not be chosen. It is a regular Chautauqua park, with all the appurtenances of a pleasure resort. We have never had an opportunity to so combine business and pleasure. Those who take this trip will ever look back to it as a green and fragrant spot in their memories.

The railroads will give reduced rates, and all accredited delegates will be entertained, so the expense need not be great. Sunday Schools should help bear the expense of their delegates.

This Convention, without doubt, will be the greatest ever held in the State. The audience and the speakers make a convention. We expect one of the largest, most enthusiastic, and most appreciative audiences ever gathered at a State Convention.

An inspiring audience deserves inspiring speakers, and we have spared no pains in securing the best the nation affords.

Mr. W. C. Pearce, of Chicago. Mr. Pearce is one of the best known and best loved Sunday School men in America. He is an International Field Worker and will bring to us the best America affords, and will give it to us in such palatable form that we'll cry for more.

Dr. H. M. Hamill, of Nashville. When the roll of fame is made up, Dr. Hamill's name will stand near the top. He is one of our recognized leaders, a man with a big heart and a giant intellect. His work will never be forgotten by those who are fortunate enough to hear him.

Rev. Wm. Meggison, of Richmond. Mr. Meggison is a Sunday School Field Worker for the Southern Presbyterian Church. He is full of fire, and snap and vim, and holds his audience with a magic skill. He instructs, at the same time he entertains.

These three men from out the State all have a world-wide reputation. They will put a power and an enthusiasm into our Convention that will make all feel that it is indeed good to be there. But this is not all. Kentucky boasts Sunday School leaders second to none in America, and they will all be there. There is our own incomparable Miss Nannie Lee Frayser, whose sweet Bible stories and touching heart-to-heart talks will melt you to tears and make you feel a little nearer heaven than you have ever before. Dr. E. Y. Mullins, President of the Baptist Theological Seminary, and a most inspiring speaker, will be there. Mr. Rolt, M. Hopkins, of the Christian Church; Rev. J. T. Watts, of the Baptist Church; Messrs. Fox, Gebauer, Vaughan and Green, of the Kentucky Sunday School Association, all of them experts, will have a prominent place on the program.

The NEWS desires to call the special attention of its readers to this Convention. It will be held by ideal Sunday School workers, at an ideal spot for such a meeting, and all who attend will be pleased and benefited. Reference will be again made to the event.

The advertising rates charged by the BIG SANDY NEWS are lower per hundred people who read it than any paper in Eastern Kentucky. The real value of advertising is based entirely upon this one point. Any one who will give the matter the slightest thought will realize this.

OUR NEIGHBORS.

The old Palace Hotel in Williamson has been consumed by fire. This was one of the first buildings erected in that city and had been added to from time to time by the owner, Mr. H. Williamson. It was a good property and will be a considerable loss to Mr. Williamson, who has been very unfortunate recently in loss by fire.

Mt. Sterling, Ky., July 24—Itain, hail and wind caused heavy damage in the northern part of the county and in Bourbon county. Hail cut tobacco to pieces, while whole fields of corn and oats were laid low. Wheat and rye are literally ruined. Heavy damage is reported from Nicholas and Bath counties while Fleming suffered much.

A distressing accident occurred in the upper E. & O. yards, near the round house, Tuesday morning in Ashland, about 10 o'clock, that resulted in the death of Roy Sanderson, a young switchman employed by the C. & O. Company. Just how it happened no one seems to know, but Sanderson was struck by an engine run by the hostler, and knocked down, the engine passing over his body, which was cut in two at the waist.

Huntington, July 19—With a rope used as a clothes line Nellie Pett, aged 19, committed suicide at Pike-ton, a suburb, today, and it was several hours before her parents found her body dangling from a limb of a tree in her play-yard. It was at first thought that an accident had caused the child's death, but the carefully fixed noose leaves no doubt as to the correctness of the suicide theory. The limb to which the rope was fastened was about 10 feet from the ground.

John Jackson had the misfortune to lose the dwelling house Sunday night on his farm a short distance above Echo on the right fork of Twelvepole creek, recently purchased by him from George Dillon. The loss will amount to $2,000, at least, none of which is covered by insurance. The building was occupied by Mr. Dillon at the time, who suffered the loss of some household and kitchen furniture in the fire.

Morehead, Ky., July 21.—"French" Stamper, probably the most famous "moonshiner" of the mountains, died at the home of a relative on Christy creek, five miles from this city. Stamper had served two terms in the Federal penitentiary and many sentences in Federal jails for his illicit liquor operations. He is a familiar character to all revenue officers of this section and is said to have operated extensively in West Virginia. No manner of punishment could deter him from his favorite calling of "moonshining." He stands indicted in this county for violation of the liquor laws.

The Ashland Independent gives the following interesting report of a man who is living and well with a bullet in his brain:

The Central Tri-State Medical Society is in session at Clyffside Park and the physicians who attend the session will hear some interesting matters discussed, one of the cases to be examined being that of Joseph Miller, the C. & O. baggage-master, who shot himself in March last while on his train near Lexington, and who was taken to the C. & O. hospital at Huntington, where he lay between life and death for weeks.

Miller's recovery is a remarkable one. The bullet entered the under part of the chin, ran up, passing through the tongue and crashing into the brain, where it lodged, but one and a half inches back of the left eye. There it now lies, and was photographed last night by a committee of Ashland doctors. The bullet is of 38-caliber.

Miller seems in perfect health, and says that the presence of the ball there does not give him much trouble, but has affected his sense of smell to some extent. The man, however, desires to have it removed if it can be done in safety, and is willing to subject himself to an operation for that purpose.

The case is one of the most interesting to medical men of this locality, on account of the rapid recovery of the man; and, while some surgeons had advised the operation, the majority any let well enough alone.

The NEWS office can furnish seals for Notaries, Judges, and officers of all kinds. Also, any kind of office supplies.
